WAS IT MURDER?

The Dead Body Mystery Deepens.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CHICAGO, May 2.—The employes of Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railway baggage room, at the union depot, can furnish no clue to the identification of the person who shipped the trunk containing a dead body to Pittsburg yesterday. Detectives here are making a thorough investigation.

The First Boat Through the Straits.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

MARQUETTE, Mich., May 2.—The steamer "Alpena" arrived safely, being the first boat to go through the straits this season. It is reported there are vast fields of ice, in the vicinity of Waugoshance, miles in extent, and that the sail vessels cannot hope to get through for several days yet.

Business Failures.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

TERRE HAUTE, May 2.—Phillip Schloss, clothier, assigned this morning to A. Herz. He owned a hat store and overall manufactory here and a clothing store at Independence, Kansas. Liabilities, $100,000; assets, $60,000. The cause of the failure was the overthrow of preferences with Case, Rindkohf Bros. & Co., of New York, with whom he was a preferred creditor to the extent of $35,500 when they failed.

The Spring Wheat.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

CHICAGO, Ill. May 2.—The Times summarized its special advices from spring wheat belts of the west and northwest this morning as follows: The area sown to cereal is considerable less than reported last year. The seeding in the Red River valley is ten days earlier than at this time last year and the acreage has been largely increased, owing, it is said, to the development of the country and bountiful yields harvested in past years. In Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin, the unseasonable weather has retarded farm work. The acreage of spring wheat in these states will suffer a decrease of fully 15 per cent and in some of the counties the seed already planted will have to be plowed up, the water from swollen streams having soaked into the ground and destroyed the germ.

A Lawyer Indicted.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., May 1.—The grand jury this afternoon returned an indictment against A. H. Webster, a lawyer, for grand larceny in the second degree. Webster was left about $40,000 six years ago, but, becoming infected with the speculative mania, he moved to Chicago and lost his all within eighteen months in the grain market. The charge causing the indictment was that of the misappropriation of $180 belonging to a client. Webster has been in jail for three weeks past on a body attachment in a civil suit for $1,300 claimed by another client.

He claims that the killing was done in self-defense.

PENNILESS

Pitiful Flight of a Poor Family Who Were Put off a Richmond Train.

There was a pitiful sight at the depot of the Fort Wayne, Richmond and Cincinnati road, in Decatur, last evening, when the north bound train arrived. A family, consisting of father, mother and six children, were ordered from the train because they did not have the necessary means to pay their fare any further, although they were anxious to reach some point in Michigan. They were wholly destitute and almost starved, and the youngest child quite sick. A collection was taken up at the depot among the parties who were present, and $6.80 was raised for the relief of the suffering family. They were provided with tickets to their destination and are now probably among friends. It is said that they started from Richmond, this state.

The Consols and Russian Securities Take a Boom, in Anticipation of Peace.

PROBABLE PEACE.

England Ready, but Not Willing, to Go to War.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL.

LONDON, May 2.—The admiralty's arrangements provide for the immediate dispatch of 15,000 troops to India if needed. The government has ordered the governors of the naval stations on the Mediterranean to send reports of what stores are needed, and they will be immediately supplied. The government continues to engage fresh artisans to push work at the dock yards.

A LITTLE FIRMER.

LONDON, May 2.—Consols closed Thursday at 95 1-16, and in view of the feeling prevailing now that peace is more probable than war, they opened this morning at 96, and advanced to 96¼. At 12:30 they were 96 1-16, but now fall back to 96. Russian securities that closed Thursday night at 85¼ opened this morning at 88.

NO ARBITRATION.

The Russian papers continue to repudiate the idea of submitting the Penjdeh affair to an inquiry or referring the dispute to arbitration.

THE STRUGGLE BEGUN.

The London Standard says: "Whether the reply of Russia will be pacific or not it must be borne in mind that the struggle of Russia and England has begun and the struggle is not one of frontiers or fine points, but international morality."

LONDON, May 1.—The temper of the English ministerial circle is becoming more pacific. It is reported that M. de Giers, the Russian foreign minister, has imparted to Sir Edward Thornton, the British embassador, information that Russia intends to send the British government a full statement regarding General Komaroff's position and asking England to consent to an inquiry into alleged breaking of the convention of March with note that Russia would not absolutely reject arbitration. The result of Russia's statement will be to delay the response of M. de Giers to the last British government dispatch.

An agreement has been concluded between the English and Turkish governments, by which the latter will allow vessels of the former to pass through the Dardanelles in event of war with Russia.

In return for this favor Turkey will be allowed to send an expedition to occupy Soudan by way of Suakim. England will restore Cyprus to Turkey at the end of five years and guarantees the integrity of the states of Porte.

The ameer has sent troops to occupy Ardoben Pass to prevent a Russian surprise of Herat by that route. Further Russian movements are reported. It is stated that Russians have occupied Klamura, on Kusk river, with a body of Tekke horsemen and are busy making a military road to Meruchak.

PANAMA, May 1.—All is quiet here. The town has been in charge of the National troops since 5 p. m. yesterday.

During the armistice of forty-eight hours, many, probably a greater portion of the rebels, escaped, taking with them their arms. The conduct of the United States forces have been exemplary. Three deaths have occurred during their stay here. Thomas Brennan, a fireman, was shot in the leg on the forenoon of April 27th by private Murray, of the second battalion, and died on the 29th. Brennan was drunk and violent and assaulted Murray with a knife. On the same night private David Irvine, of Captain Cochrane's company, was shot by sentinel James Macauley while trying to run the lines. August Fleming, seaman apprentice, died from fever April 30th.

At noon the commodore felt worse and Mrs. Garrison called in the doctor. This time Dr. Barker brought Dr. Keys with him. The commodore was put to bed, where he died at 1 o'clock of paralysis of the heart. He was seventy-six years old.

During Grant's illness the commodore and his young wife were daily visitors at the general's residence. The funeral will take place from the house on Monday.

GENERAL GRANT

Passes the Worst Night in the Past Two Weeks.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Last night was the worst with General Grant in two weeks. He slept only at short intervals until 6 o'clock this morning, when he fell into a sleep that continued until 8. He then awoke again, but afterwards dozed until between 9 and 10 o'clock. About 10 o'clock last night the general settled down as was supposed for the the night. He believed Dr. Douglas had left the house. This was not true, and when at about 11 o'clock the patient heard the doctor's voice in the hall he summoned him to the sick room. The general seemed nervous and apprehensive and requested the doctor not to quit the house until morning. Hence Dr. Douglas remained at the house until 8:30 this morning. When the doctor left the house he said the general's relapse might have been owing to cerebral excitation, resulting from work on his book during the past two days. The weather, too, may have contributed to the restlessness of the patient. The throat and general physical conditions were not such as to have caused the uneasiness, and the doctor found an explanation of the fact in the reasons stated. The weekly consultation will be held to-morrow.

CLUBBED TO DEATH

Is the Religion, the Family Comfort and the Happiness of Many People.

"What is the Influence of Club-Houses in American Cities?"

"Every Tree is Known by his own Fruit."

Dr. Talmage preached last Sunday in the Brooklyn Tabernacle on the subject: "What is the influence of club-rooms in American cities?" Before the sermon Dr. Talmage explained the twenty-second chapter of Proverbs on the value of a good name which comes from equipoise of temper and industry. The hymn sung was:

"Before Jehovah's awful throne,
Ye nations, bow with sacred joy."

The text was Luke vi., 44: "Every tree is known by his own fruit." Dr. Talmage said:

Fall pippins do not grow on a crab-apple tree. Choke pears are not found in an orchard of bartletts. Christ laid down this principal, and it is always applicable, and everywhere applicable. If you want to find whether an institution is good or bad, you have only to examine the kind of character it produces. I remember in my father's orchard there was a large apple tree that yielded luxuriant fruit; but it had a hollow trunk so that we boys could hide in it. Which was the best position from which to examine the fruit of that tree—in the trunk where we sometimes used to hide, or standing outside looking at the fruit? "Well" you say, "standing on the outside looking at it." And so I really believe that those inside any institution are less competent to judge of its tendencies than those who are standing outside and watching the products perpetually shaken down.

I am asked what is the influence of the club-houses of this country? To the answering of that question I give this discourse. Men are gregarious. Cattle in herds. Fish in schools. Birds in flocks. Men in social circles. You may by the discharge of a gun scatter a flock of quails or by the plunge of an anchor send apart the denizens of the sea; but they will gather themselves together again. If you by some new power could break the associations in which men now stand, they would again adhere. God meant it so. He has gathered all the flowers and shrubs into associations. You may plant one "forget-me-not" or "heart's-ease" alone, away off upon the hillside, but it will soon hunt up some other "forget-me-not" or "heart's-ease." Plants love company. You will find them talking to each other in the dew.

A GALAXY OF STARS

is only a mutual life insurance company. You sometimes see a man with no outbranchings of sympathy. His nature is cold and hard, like a shin's mast, ice-glazed, which the most agile sailor could never climb. Others have a thousand roots and a thousand branches. Innumerable tendrils climb their hearts and bloom all the way up, and the fowls of heaven sing in the branches. In consequence of this tendency, we find men coming together in tribes, in communities, in churches, in societies. Some gather together to cultivate the arts, some to provide for the welfare of the state, some to discuss religious themes, some to kindle their mirth, some to advance their craft. So every active community is divided into associations of artists, of merchants, of book-binders, of carpenters, of masons, of plasters, of shipwrights and of plumbers. Do you cry out against it? Then you cry out against a tendency divinely implanted. Your tirades will accomplish no more than if you should preach to a busy ant hill or bee hive a long sermon against secret societies.

All intelligent ages have had their gatherings characterized by the blunt old Anglo-Saxon designation of "club." If you have read history you know that there was a King's Head club, a Ben Jonson club, a Brothers' club, to which Swift and Bolingbroke belonged; a Literary club, which Burke and Goldsmith and Johnson and Boswell made immortal; a Jacobin club, a Benjamin Franklin Junto club. Some of these indicate justice, some to favor the arts, some to promote good manners, some to despoil the habits, some to destroy the soul. So now we have club-houses and they are as different from each other as day and night. Look at two specimens:

What an imperial hallway! See, here are parlors on this side with the upholstery of the Kremlin and the Tuileries, and here are dining halls that challenge you to mention any luxury that they can not afford, and here are galleries with sculptures and paintings and lithographs and drawings from the best of artists, Cropsy, and Bierstadt and Church and Hart and Gifford—pictures for every mood, whether you are impassioned or placid: shipwrecked or sunlight over the sea, Sheridan's ride or the noonday party of the farmers under the trees, foaming deer pursued by the hounds in the Adirondacks or the sheep on the lawn? On this side there are reading-rooms where you find all news-papers and magazines. On that side there is a library where you find all books from hermeneutics to the fairy tale. Coming in and out, there are gentlemen, some of whom stay ten minutes, others stay many hours. Some of these are from luxuriant homes, and they have excused themselves for a while from the domestic circles that they may enjoy the larger sociability of the club-house. These are from dismembered households, and they have a plain lodging somewhere, but they come to this club-room to have their chief enjoyment. One black ball amid ten votes will defeat a man's becoming a member. For rowdyism, for drunkeness, for gambling, for any kind of misdemeanor, a member is is dropped out. Brilliant club-houses from top to bottom. The chandeliers, the plate, the furniture, the companionship, the literature, the social prestage, a complete enchantment.

ANOTHER CLUB-HOUSE.

Opening the door we find the fumes of strong drink and tobacco, something almost intolerable. The young men at this table—it is easy to understand what they are at from the flushed cheek, the intent look, the almost angry way of tossing the dice or of moving the "chips;" they are gambling. At another table are men who are telling vile stories. They are three-fourths intoxicated, and between 1 and 2 o'clock they will go staggering, hooting, swearing, shouting on their way home. That is an only son; on him all kindness, all care, all culture has been bestowed; he is paying his parents in this way for their kindness. That is a young married man, who only a few months ago at the altar made promises of kindness and fidelity, every one of which he has broken. Walk through and see for yourself. Here are all the implements of dissipation and of quick death. As the hours of the night go away the conversation becomes imbecile and more debasing. Now it is time to shut up. Those who are able to stand will get out on the pavement and balance themselves against the lamp-post or against the railings of the fence. The young man who is not able to stand will have a bed improvised for him in the club-house, or two not quite so overcome with liquor will conduct him to his father's house and they will ring the door-bell and the door will open and the two imbecile escorts will introduce into the hallway the ghastliest and most hellish spectacle that ever enters a front door—a drunken son. If the dissipating club-houses of this country would make a contract with the infernio to provide it 10,000 men a year, and for twenty years, on the condition that no more should be asked of them, the club-houses could afford to make that contract for they would save homesteads, save fortunes, save bodies, minds and souls. The 10,000 men who would be sacrificed by that contract would be but a small part of the multitude sacrificed without the contract.

But I make a vast difference between clubs. I have belonged to four clubs—a theological club, a ball club and two literary clubs. I got from them physical rejuvenation and moral health. What shall be the principle? If God will help me, I will lay down three principles by which you may judge whether the club where you are a member or the club to which you have been invited is a legitimate or an illegitimate club-house.

First of all I want you to test the club by its influences on home, if you have a home. I have been told by a prominent gentleman in club life that three-fourths of the members of the great clubs of these cities are married men. That wife soon loses her influence over her husband who nervously and foolishly looks upon all evening absences as an assault on domesticity. How are the great enterprises of art and literature and beneficence and public weal to be carried on if every man is to have his world bounded on one side by his front door step and on the other side by his back window, knowing nothing higher than his own attic, or nothing lower than his own cellar? That wife who becomes jealous of her husband's attention to art or literature or religion or charity, is breaking her own sceptre of conjugal power. I know in this church an instance where a wife thought that her husband was giving too many nights to Christian service, to charitable service, to prayer-meetings and to religious convocation. She systematically decoyed him away until now he attends neither this nor any other church, and is on a rapid way to destruction, his morals gone, his money gone, and, I fear, his soul gone. Let any Christian wife rejoice when her husband consecrates evenings to the service of God, or to charity, or to art, or to anything elevated; but let not men sacrifice home life to club life. I have the rolls of the members of a great many of the prominent clubs of these cities, and I can point out to you a great many men who are guilty of this sacrilege. They are as genial as angels at the club-house, as ugly as sin at home. They are generous on all subjects of wine supper, yachts and fast horses, but they are stingy about the wife's dress and the children's shoes. That man has made that which might be a healthful recreation an usurper of his affections, and he has married it and he is guilty of moral bigamy. Under this process the wife, whatever her features, becomes uninteresting and homely. He becomes critical of her, does not like the dress, does not like the way she arranges her hair, is amazed that he was ever so unromantic as to offer her hand and heart. She is always wanting money, money, money, when she ought to be discussing Dexters and Derby day and English drags with six horses, all answering the pull of one "ribbon."

I tell you, there are thousands of houses in Brooklyn and New York being

CLUBBED TO DEATH.

There are houses in these cities where membership always involves domestic shipwreck. Tell me that a man has joined a certain club—tell me nothing more about him for ten years, and I will write his history, if he still be alive. The man is a wine-guzzler, his wife broken hearted or prematurely old, his fortune gone or reduced, and his home a mere name in a directory. Here are six secular nights in the week. "What shall I do with them?" says the father and the husband. "I will give four of those nights to the improvement and entertainment of my family either at home or in a good neighborhood; I will devote one to charitable institutions; I will devote one to the club." I congratulate you. Here is a man who says: "I will make a different division of the six nights. I will take three for the club and three for other purposes." I tremble. Here is a man who says: "Out of the six secular nights of the week I will devote five to the club-house and one to the home, which night I will spend in scowling like a March squall, wishing I was out spending it as I had the other five." That man's obituary is written. Not one out of ten thousand that gets so far on the wrong road ever stops. Gradually his health will fail through late hours and through too much stimulus. He will be first-rate pray for erysipelas and rheumatism of the heart. The doctor, coming in, will at a glance see it is not only present disease he must fight, but years of fast living. The clergyman, for the sake of the feelings of the family on the funeral day, will only talk in religious generalities. The man who got his yacht in the eternal rapids will not be at the obsequies. They will have pressing engagements that day. They will send flowers to the coffin and send their wives to utter words of sympathy, but they will have engagements elsewhere. They never come. Bring me mallet and chisel and I will cut on the tombstone that man's epitaph: "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." "No," you say, "that would not be appropriate." "Let me die the death of the righteous and let my last end be like his." "No" you say, "that would not be appropriate." "Then give me the mallet and chisel and I will cut an honest epitaph: "Here lies the victim of these dissipating club-houses." I think that damage is often done by the sections of some aristocratic family who belong to one of these dissipating club-houses. People coming up from humbler classes feel it an honor to belong to the same club, forgetting the fact that many of the sons and grandsons of the large commercial establishments of the last generation are now as to mind, imbecile; as to the body diseased; as to morals, rotten. They would have got through their property long ago if they had full possession of it, but their wily ancestors, who had got the money by hard knocks, foresaw how it was to be and they tied up everything in the will. Now there is nothing of that unworthy descended but his grandfather's name and most lack roundity. And yet how many steamers there are which feel honored to lash fast that worm-eaten tug, though it drags them straight into the breakers.

Another test by which you can find whether your club is legitimate or illegitimate: the effect it has on your secular occupation. I can understand how through such an institution a man can reach commercial success. I know some men have formed their best business relations through such a channel. If the club has advantaged you in an honorable calling it is a legitimate club. But has your credit failed? Are bargain-makers more cautious how they trust you with a bill of goods? Have the men whose names were down in the commercial agency A1 before they entered the club been going down since in commercial standing? Then look out! You and I every day know of commercial establishments going to ruin through the social excesses of one or two members. Their fortunes beaten to death with ball player's bat, or cut amidships by the front prow of the regetta, or going down under the swift hoofs of the fast horses, or drowned in large potations of cognac or Monongahela. Their club-house was the "Loch Earn." Their business house was the "Ville du Havre." They struck, and the "Ville du Havre" went under.

by which you may know whether the club to which you belong or the club to whose membership you are invited is a legitimate club or an illegitimate club, is this: What is its effect on your sense of moral and religious obligations? Now if I should take the names of all the people in this audience this morning and put them on a roll and then I should lay that roll back of this organ and a hundred years from now some one should take that roll and call it from a to z, there would not one of you answer. I say that any association that makes me forget that fact is a bad association. When I go to Chicago I am sometimes perplexed at Buffalo, as I suppose many travelers are, as to whether it is better to take the Lake Shore route or the Michigan Central, equally expeditious and equally safe, getting at the destination at the same time. But suppose I hear that on one route the track is torn up and the bridges are torn down and the switches are unlocked. It will not take me a great while to decide which road to take. Now here are two roads into the future, the Christian and the unchristian, the safe and the unsafe. Any institution or any association that confuses my idea in regard to that fact is a bad institution and a bad association.

I had prayers before I joined the club. Did I leave them after? I attended the house of God before I connected myself with the club. Since that union with the club do I absent myself from religious influences? Which would you rather have in your hand when you come to die, a pack of cards or a bible? Which would you rather have pressed to your lips in the closing moment, the cup of Belshazzarean wassail or the chalice of Christian communion? Who would you rather have for your pall-bearers, the elders of a Christian church or the companions whose conversation was full of slang and innuendo? Who would you rather have for your eternal companions, those men who spend their evenings betting, gambling, swearing, carousing and telling vile stories, or your little child, that bright girl whom the Lord took? Oh, you would not have been away so much nights, would you, if you had known she was going away so soon? Dear me, your house has never been the same since. Your wife has never bright-ened up. She has not got over it; she never will get over it. How long the evenings are with no one to put to bed and no one to tell the beautiful Bible story. What a pity it is that you cannot spend more evenings at home in trying to help her bear that sorrow. You can never drown that sorrow in the wine cup. You can never break away from the little arms that used to be flung around your neck when she used to say: "Papa, do stay home to-night; do stay home to-night!" You will never be able to wipe from your lips the dying kiss of your little girl. The fascination of a dissipating club-house is so great that sometimes a man has turned his back on his home when his child was dying of scarlet fever. He went away. Before he got back at midnight the eyes had been closed, the undertaker had done his work, and the wife, worn out with three weeks watching, lay unconscious in the next room. Then the returned father comes up stairs and he sees the cradle gone and the windows up and says: "Whis the matter?" In the judgment day he will find out what is the matter. Oh, man, astray, God help you!

I deplore this ruin the more, because this style of dissipation is taking down our finest men. The admission fee sifts out the penurious, and takes only those who are called the best fellows. Oh, how changed you are! Not so kind to your wife as you used to be; not so patient with your children. Your conscience is not so much at rest. You laugh more now and sing more than once, but are not so happy. It is not the public drinking saloon that is taking you down, but it is simply and undeniably your club-room. You do not make yourself as agreeable in your family as once. You go home at 12 o'clock with an unnatural flush upon your cheek and a strange color in your eye that you got at the club. You merely acknowledge that you feel queer. You say that champagne never intoxicates; that it only exhilarates, makes the conversation fluent, shakes up the humor, and has no bad effect except a headache the next day. Be not deceived. Champagne may not, like whisky, throw a man under the table; but if, through anything you drink you gain an unnatural fluency of speech and glow of feeling, you are simply drunk. If those imperiled were heartless young men, stingy young men, I would not be so sorry as I am; but there are many of them generous to a fault, frank, honest, cheerful, talented. I begrudge the devil such a prize. After a while these persons will for which they are now distinguished. Their countenances will get haggard, and instead of looking one in the eye when they talk, they will look down. After a while when the mother kindly asks, "What kept you out so late?" they will make no answer, or will say, "That is my business!" They will come creas and befogged to the store and bank, and ever and anon neglect some duty, and after awhile will be dismissed; and then, with nothing to do, will rise in the morning at 10 o'clock, cursing the servant because the breakfast is cold, and then go down town and stand on the steps of a fashionable hotel and criticize the passers by. While the young man who was a clerk in a cellar has come up to be the first clerk, and he who a few years ago ran errands for the bank has got to be cashier and thousands of other young men have gone up to higher and more responsible positions, he has been going down until there he passes through the street with bloated lip and bloodshot eye and staggering step and hat mud-spattered and set sideways on a shock of greasy hair, the ashes of his cigar dashed upon his cravat. Here he goes! Look at him, all ye pure-hearted young men, and see the work of the dissipating club-room. I know one such who, after the contaminations of his club-house, leaped out of the third-story window to put an end to his wretchedness.

O men who are victims of dissipating associations, your sins will follow you! I describe the history of thousands of households when I say that the tea is rapidly taken and while yet the family linger the father shoves back his chair, has "an engagement," lights his cigar and starts out, not returning until after midnight. That is the history of 365 days in the year, except when he is sick and cannot go out. How about home duties? Have you fulfilled all your vows? Would your wife ever have married you with such a prospect? Wait until your sons get to be sixteen or seventeen years of age and they, too, will shove back from the tea table, have "an engagement," light their cigars, go over to their club-houses, their night-key rattling in your door after midnight—the effect of your example. And as your son's constitution may not be as strong as yours and the liquor he drinks more terribly drugged, he will catch up with you on the road to death, although you got the start of him. And so you will both go to hell together.

A revolving drummond light on the head of a locomotive casts its gleam through the darkness as it is turned around; so I catch up the lamp of God's truth and turn it around until its tremendous glare flashes into all the club-houses of our cities. Flee the presence of dissipating club-houses. "Paid your money?" Sacrifice that rather than your soul. "Good fellows," are they? They can not stay what they are under such influences. Mollusca lived 200 fathoms down in the Norwegian sea. The Siberian stag grows fat on the stunted growth of Altian peaks. The Hedsarium thrives amid desolation of Sahara. Tufts of osier and birch grow on the hot lips of volcanic Schneehalten. But good character and a useful life thrive amid club-room dissipation—never! The best way to make a wild beast cower is to look him in the eye, but the best way to treat the temptations I have described is to turn your back and fly. Oh, my heart aches! I see men struggling to get out of the serfdom of bad habits, and I want to help them. I have knelt with them and heard their cry for help. I have had them put one hand on each of my shoulders and look me in the eye with an earnestness that the judgment shall have no power to make me forget, and from their lips, scorched with the fires of ruin have heard them cry, "God help me!" There is no rescue for such save in the Lord Almighty.

A German minister, in speaking of the security of God's people and the precious promises of the Bible, said: "How often the words 'Fear not' occur in the sacred volume! I have counted up into the seventies, and I thought that was enough. I need not look for any more."

Too many have no idea of the subjection of their temper to the influence of religion, and yet what is changed if the temper is not! If a man is as passionate, malicious, restful, sullen, moody, or morose after his conversion as before it, what is he converted from or to?—John Angell James.

"There is no greater mistake," said Dr. Bushnell, "than to suppose that Christians can impress the world by agreeing with it. No; it is not conformity that we want; it is not being able to beat the world in its own way; but it is to stand apart and above it, to produce the impression of a holy and separate life—this only can give us a true Christian power."

They say that I am growing old, because my hair is silvered, and there are crows' feet on my forehead, and my step is not as firm and elastic as before. But they are mistaken. That is not me. The knees are weak, but the knees are not me. The brow is wrinkled, but the brow is not me. This is the house I live in. But I am young—younger than I ever was before.—Guthrie.

The sense of stewardship would compell knowledge of the needs of those we were to distribute to. Lazarus doesn't lie at the door of Dives to-day but far away, but if Dives be the servant of God he must seek him out. The Good Samaritan chanced that way, the good steward must seek the wounded. The Shepherd sought his sheep and the steward must do as the Master did. This constant communion with the Master and full knowledge of the needy would call thought from self and when we forget self it is wonderful how little self needs.—Rev. O. P. Gifford.

Why Boilers Explode.

Many rather mysterious boiler explosions having been attributed to the sudden and explosively violent flashing into steam of superheated water, the French Academy of Sciences appointed a committee, a year or more ago, to investigate the subject. That committee has since made many careful experiments, using pure and impure water, water which had been long stagnant, and water from which the air had been driven by long boiling, and generating steam by rapid and by slow firing. As a result the conclusion has been reached that if any boiler explosion has occurred through superheating it must have been through the concurrence of exceptional circumstances, which are neither defined, known nor suspected. The experiments have shown conclusively that, however unaccountable explosions sometimes appear, the real cause must be looked for in the simple loading of the boilers with steam pressures beyond their strength.

Spring Medicine

When the weather grows warmer, that extreme tired feeling, want of appetite, dullness, languor, and lassitude, affect almost the entire human family, and scrofula and other diseases caused by humors, manifest themselves with many. It is impossible to throw off this debility and expel humors from the blood without the aid of a reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"I could not sleep, and would get up in the morning with hardly life enough to get out of bed. I had no appetite, and my face would break out with pimples. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and soon began to sleep soundly; could get up without that tired and languid feeling, and my appetite improved." R. A. Sanford, Kent, O.

"I had been much troubled by general debility. Last spring Hood's Sarsaparilla proved just the thing needed. I derived an immense amount of benefit. I never felt better." H. F. Millet, Boston, Mass.

Fort Wayne Paint and Color Works,

No. 12 West Columbia Street Fort Wayne, Indiana.

To Painters

And others wanting First-class Paints: Do you know that you have in Fort Wayne a Manufacturer of Mixed Paint and Grinder of Colors, where you can buy your Paints from first hand instead of paying the middle man his profits, which are from 25 to 33½ per cent. O. L. STARKEY, the Painter and proprietor of the Fort Wayne Paint and Color Works, came to Fort Wayne in April, 1856, and is identified as one of the old citizens who has helped build up Fort Wayne, and his knowledge of Paints and the composition of pigments to form different shades and tints is well-known to the public, and his long practical experience in painting gives him the knowledge of Paints that a mere dealer cannot have for he does not know anything about Paints, as he buys them sealed up and he cannot tell you what it takes to make this or that shade. All he knows is what the label on the can says. Neither can he tell you shades that will or will not fade. By buying your Paints of O. L. STARKEY you can get all the information you want. I am making Liquid Paints in all shades and colors; also the same shades and colors in paste form, the same thickness as white lead and requires thinning down the same as white lead. In making the different shades my formulas are all registered giving the amount of each color it takes to form certain shades all thoroughly mixed together in the powder mills, then wet down and run through a mixing machine, and from there to the mills where it is all ground together making a pigment that cannot be made by hand. Call or send and get some of my sample cards of colors and tints; also see elevations of gothic houses colored up with four and five shades, which will give you a good idea how to paint and ornament the outside of your houses.

I say again, do not buy of the middle man if you want to save money. I will guarantee my prices and quality of goods with any manufacturer in the United States.

A PRIVATE LETTER.

Probably no man is better known or more highly respected than Mr. Julian S Carr, President of the Blackwell's Durham Tobacco Co, of Durham, N. C. In every tobacco store in the United States and in many foreign countries, Blackwell's Durham Tobacco is sold, and it is a well known fact that the sales of this Company largely exceed those of any other tobacco manufacturer. That such success has been obtained is due to the energy, integrity and ability of Mr. Carr, who has so successfully managed the affairs of the Company. Such a letter as the following, written by Mr. Carr to a personal friend whose only interest in the matter referred to was a desire to do a friendly act, is certainly worthy of careful reading.

Durham, N. C., Feb. 25, 1885.

My Dear "Mac":—I have delayed writing to you, with reference to the Athlophoros remedy, until I could hear from a friend of mine, a gentleman of high character, who used Athlophoros at my suggestion with very great benefit. He is a tobacco manufacturer of high standing. I have waited to hear from him in order that I might use his name officially. I am satisfied, however, that he must be at the New Orleans Exposition, and my letters have failed to reach him. So I will not delay answering your letter longer. You want to know whether Athlophoros is really as good as you thought when you so kindly sent me a couple bottles. I had a sister who was a victim of neuralgia and rheumatism. She suffered intensely, and her condition gave her family and friends much concern. Every known remedy was tried, but without effect. When the bottles you sent me came, I sent one to my sister and one to my sister-in-law. My sister was so encouraged from the use of this one bottle that I put her upon a thorough treatment of Athlophoros. I certainly owe you and Athlophoros a great debt of gratitude for the relief the remedy has given her. She has almost completely recovered from rheumatism so much so that she has stopped the use of Athlophoros and considers herself well. My sister-in-law to whom I gave the other bottle, was suffering fearfully with neuralgia, she had become unconscious from the pain—the Athlophoros relieved her entirely. I gave a bottle of Athlophoros to an intimate friend who suffered such intense pain in his head that he looked as if his eyes would start from their sockets, and by its use he has been greatly benefited, and tells me that he received such relief from it that he orders it by the box and keeps it at all times in his house—is never without it—can't afford to be, this is the gentleman to whom I wrote. I wanted to send with this his opinion in his own handwriting, but as I stated he must still be at New Orleans. A very worthy colored man, a house carpenter, Jim Whitted by name, lives in the house adjoining "my man of all work." One morning my man told me that Jim was suffering so intensely from rheumatism that the neighborhood was disturbed day and night by his cries of agony. Wishing to test Athlophoros before my own eyes on a genuine case of acute rheumatism, I wrote the Athlophoros Company stating Jim's condition, and offering if they would send me the remedy, to see that it had a fair trial in his case. I confess, with all my confidence in Athlophoros, I doubted whether it could help Jim, but it was faithfully tried and I think the proudest man now in all this community is Jim Whitted. He claims to be entirely relieved of all his rheumatism and not only that, but he says the stiffness in his joints, which came with the rheumatism, has all been removed. Within thirty hours after he began to use Athlophoros, he felt like another person. These instances have all come under my personal knowledge. I am very slow to speak of or recommend any medicine, but when a remedy has the virtue and the merit that I believe Athlophoros has, I cannot hesitate to recommend it. I have given you facts—don't they answer your question fully? Yours truly, J. S. CARR

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he has'n't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us as directed ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York.

ULYSSES S. GRANT.

Celebrating the Sixty-third Anniversary of the Great Commander's Birth.

Gen. U. S Grant was sixty-three years old on Monday, the 27th of April, and the anniversary of his birth was celebrated in many cities and informally observed throughout the country. Flags were displayed and cannon boomed as when the people celebrated his great victories during the war, or when they gathered to greet or wish to welcome him on his return from his trip around the world. Thousands of congratulatory messages were sent to the old commander, and his name was on all lips. The event was quietly observed by the family of the stricken General at their home in New York.

Gen. Grant's Family.

It is a curious fact that the General and his wife, formerly Miss Dent, never lost a child. Of the five that bless their union all are alive, and have been with him throughout his dangerous illness. They are Col. Fred Dent Grant, aged 31; U. S. Grant, Jr., commonly known as "Buck" Grant, 21; Nellie Mrs Sartoris, 24; and Jesse Grant, who is but 24. All of the children married, and all have children. Col Fred Grant married Miss Ida Honore, of Chicago, in 1874 or 1875. They have two lovely children a little girl of 5, Julia, and a little boy, who bears the name of his grandfather, U. S. Grant. Ulysses S., Jr., married, in 1881, Miss Chaffee a daughter of the Senator. They have two children, one a boy and the other a girl. Jesse R. Grant married Miss Chapman, of San Francisco, within three months of the marriage of his brother, U. S., Jr., to Miss Chaffee. Jesse has a charming little daughter about 3 years of age. Mrs. Sartoris has three children, the eldest a boy of 9, named Algernon after her father. The other children are a beautiful girl of 7 and a strong, healthy child, 2 years old. The vigorous blood of the Grants is seen still in the third generation, for the boys have the mark 1 physical attributes of the General's family

Frightful Result of a Snow-Slide in Colorado.

[Denver special.]

A telegram from Tennessee Pass says news reached there at midnight of a snow-slide near Mount Jackson which even numbers are supposed to have perished. The men had been working on the Homestake Mine, and a change has been heard of from for a fortnight, but no serious alarm had come to them. On arrival at the camp, where two cabins had stood in which the men lived, none could be found, and every timber had been removed, but not a vestige of the cabins could be found. Not a sign of life was to be seen from above.

A search party from Leadville carried a pole 12 feet long. After a thorough search the party was startled ahead of it, and on sounding with the pole it was found that it was useless to attempt to reach the men after the avalanche of snow, even with the assistance of 1,000 men to-day. The work of the search party began work, and found it impossible to do so. They had no means of telling the depth of the snow-slide. It is reported that Martin Rodgers and brother, Solicitor of Nova Scotia; Horace W. Matthews, of Leather Dress, of Iowa; John Lee, and John Burns, of England; Charles Roberts, of Nova Scotia; Chas. Hosmer, of Leadville; Robert Campbell of Leadville, and John Burns, of San Francisco.

Funeral of the Victims of the Recent Fire.

[Vicksburg Miss. dispatch.]

This has been a sad day in Vicksburg. The funeral of the thirty-two victims of the horrible fire of Tuesday night last took place at 4 o'clock, and was the largest turnout of people ever known in the city. Many persons were present from the surrounding country.

The remains of W. H. Phelan, J. M. Dent, W. R. Murphy, Daniel O'Keefe, and Peter Barker were identified. All were members of the volunteer fire department of the city. Their bodies were all taken out of the ruins of the building occupied by Mrs. Ross Broom, a dry goods store, and were placed in handsome caskets and laid in state in the halls of the various fire companies of the department. The caskets were covered with rare flowers. The remains were borne to the cemetery in four hearses. The fire department headed the procession followed by at least two thousand people.

Six of the unknowing-two colored men, females of the city. The remaining twenty-one have not been identified. The remains were so charred that it was impossible to tell whether they were white or colored.

The total number of bodies recovered is thirty-two. Search is known none are in the ruins. ACHES! PAINS!

"I ache all over!" What a common expression; and how much it means to many a poor sufferer! These aches have a cause, and more frequently than is generally suspected, the cause is the Liver or Kidneys. No disease is more painful or serious than these, and no remedy is so prompt and effective as

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS.

No remedy has yet been discovered that is so effective in all KIDNEY AND LIVER COMPLAINTS, MALARIA DYSPEPSIA, etc., and yet it is simple and harmless. Science and medical skill have combined with wonderful success those herbs which nature has provided for the cure of disease. It strengthens and invigorates the whole system.

Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, the distinguished Congressman, once wrote to a fellow member who was suffering from indigestion and kidney disease "Try Mishler's Herb Bitters, I believe it will cure you. I have used it for both indigestion and affection of the kidneys, and it is the most wonderful combination of medicinal herbs I ever saw."

TRADE MARK

Typhoid Fever.

I am sixty-seven years old, and have lived in this Hall county all my life. Up to twenty-eight years ago I was regarded as the strongest man in the neighborhood—the most robust in health. In November, 1856, I had a long and serious spell of typhoid fever. It left me emaciated and a cripple in my left leg. At times that limb was swollen an enormous size, being twice as large as its natural condition, and inflamed and angry in appearance. From my knee down small sores came, and at the ankle a large ulcer came, which discharged poisonous matter. My whole system became infected. The doctors would put me up for awhile, but the ulcer would never heal. The mercury and potash with which they dosed me brought on rheumatism and dyspepsia. I was an object of pity to all my friends. Some thought that the only hope to save life was amputation. I continued to grow worse, and for three years have not worn a shoe. Hope had almost left me. Swift's Specific was suggested, and I commenced the use at once. From the very first I began to feel better. I have taken thirty-six bottles, and the shadows which have darkened my life for twenty-eight years have all been dissipated. The effect of the medicine has been wonderful indeed. To-day I am able to attend to all my farming interests, and walk from one to five miles per day. I am satisfied that the disease is entirely broken up, and henceforth I am to be free from those terrible apprehensions and suffering which formerly made my life miserable. Swift's Specific has done more for me in one year than all the drug store medicine prescribed for myself and family in twenty-eight years, and I most cheerfully bear this testimony of its merits.
WM. R. REED.
Hall County, Ga., Feb. 28, 1885.

FROM THE DISSECTING ROOM.

Having taken Swift's Specific for blood poison contracted at a medical college at a dissection, while I was a medical student, I am grateful to say that it gave me a speedy and thorough cure after my parents had spent hundreds of dollars for treatment. My arm was swollen to twice its natural size, and no nothing helped me I was despairing of ever being cured. But hearing of S. S. S., I bought a bottle little thinking I would derive any benefit from it. I began taking it regularly, and soon the swelling began to go down and the arm ceased to pain me. I continued its use, and after taking eight bottles was thoroughly cured. AUGUSTUS WENDEL,

The Only Papers in the City That Receive Fresh News

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Oct. 8.

This is to certify that THE FORT WAYNE SENTINEL and the Fort Wayne Gazette are the only newspapers in the city of Fort Wayne that are members of the Western Associated Press and receive Telegraph News.

The Bicycling News, London, England, says that St Jacobs Oil is without doubt one of the most useful articles a wheelman can have, in case of a sprain or bruise.

Rev. E. B. Slade, of Lecompton, Kas., a presiding elder in the United Brethren church, paid his brother, George P. Slade, pastor of the Christian church, a visit this week.

A new side-wheel steamer has been placed on Lake Maxinkuckee. It will carry from seventy-five to one hundred passengers, and is a very handsome craft. This is the Nickel Plate resort.

Half a dozen freight crews have been laid off this division of the Wabash till the midsummer movement of freight begins. The April report of the Wabash road will not make a very flattering showing.

Engineers from Fort Wayne made a survey of the proposed sewer on Main street, in Kendallville, last Saturday, and will submit a report, with specifications for the construction of the same in a few days.

The gross earnings of the entire Wabash road for the year ending June 30, 1884, as taken from the receiver's records are $16,967,589.34; net earnings, $3,354,382.42. This is on 3,425 miles of track and a rolling stock valued at $6,215,746.

The Frolique polo team played a good game with the "Mascottes" of Lafayette last night, winning two out of the five goals. The Fort Wayne boys lost by the careless playing of one or two of their number. They play there again tonight.

Nap Coffinberry, trainmaster of the Wabash at Butler, and formerly yardmaster here, is in a delightful state of uncertainty. He was transferred to that point two months ago, but as he feared a change in the management of the Wabash system he has not yet removed his household goods from Peru.

Advance pages of the 1885 edition of the American Newspaper Directory, issued May 1, by George P. Rowell & Co., of New York, show that there are 14,147 newspapers and periodicals published in the United States and Canada; of these the United States has 12,273, an average of one paper for every 3,807 persons. In 1881 the total number of newspapers was less by 823 than at present.

Enos B. Reed, state fish commissioner, has taken the state's fish from Calvin Fletcher's Spencer-county farm to Indianapolis, and has located the state's "fish farm" in the Boardman reservoirs, near Broad Ripple. Several thousand German carp are in the commissioner's possession, and those who wish to produce the species should apply to him. Neither the present nor the old fish commissioner endorses the carp as a table fish; it is coarse and very "fishy," but is very prolific.

The old Pullman sleeper, "Wabash," which for the past several years has run between this city and St. Louis, but which has recently passed into the hands of the Wagner company, has just been turned out of the Wabash shops at Toledo, where she has been thoroughly overhauled by Master Car Builder Cunningham. The "Wabash" is now one of the handsomest of the many elegant Wagner cars. All the new improvements known to the sleeping car system have been added to her.

Speaking of Charley Nix's new hotel at Denver, Col., the Huntington Herald says: "The hotel is not owned by a stock company. It is a fine brick structure, five stories in height, and has just been completed this spring by William H. Cox, at a cost of $280,000. The hotel is known as The Albany, and will be opened June 1. It is to be furnished very elegantly throughout, the estimated cost of the furniture being $20,000. The furniture is now being prepared by the Grand Rapids Furniture company. The hotel is controlled by Charles H. Nix and Wm. H. Cox, and will be run by ex-Sheriff Kintz, of Huntington, and Mr. Cox, Mr. K. representing the interest of his brother-in-law, Mr. Nix."

THE ROMANCE OF A DANE.

He Wins a Prize in the Louisiana State Lottery and a Wife at the Same Time.

In the private office of The Louisiana State Lottery Company's fine building on St. Charles street, a representative of the Picayune met, on Thursday, Mr. Bidstrup, a planter of Ascension parish. Mr. B. F. Spendrup and Mr. B. W. Lashley, also from the same parish.

These visitors seemed to be in the happiest of moods. On being accosted, Mr. Spendrup said he had come down from Donaldsville, accompanied by his friends, to collect the amount of $15,000, which he had won in The Louisiana Lottery drawing of April 14, as holder of a fifth part of ticket No. 59,075, which secured the first capital prize of 75,000. Continuing, Mr Spendrup said:

"You see I have been an assistant overseer on Mr. Bidstrup's 'Gem' plantation, in Assension, where I have been working since last August. I learned sugar making in the West Indies, and lived in that part of the world until something over a year ago, when I came to this country, thinking there was a better chance of making money here. For nearly two years I had been taking tickets in the Louisiana Lottery, but somehow my luck was bad, and I won nothing. My friend Mr. Lashley, about two weeks before the last drawing got six tickets from the company's agent in Donaldsville. Mr. B. Rybiscl and I bought four from him. One was for me and three for my brother and myself on shares. They were all fifths. I mailed these to my brother who lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. After the drawing came off I was told I had won something, but was not sure, so I telegraphed for the tickets, which my brother sent me. They arrived several days ago, and then I saw there could be no more doubt about it."

Mr. Spendrup is a handsome, fair-haired, well-made young Dane, with the appearance of excellent health and possessed of all the qualifications to enjoy life.

"Are you a married man?" asked the reporter.

"No, but I expect to be very soon," he replied, laughing. "I am going to take the first vessel which sails for the West Indies. Some one is waiting for me in Santa Cruz, the Danish isle. We have been engaged for two years. I have been looking for good luck to come, and now I am ready to get married. For years I worked hard, but put money in my pocket very slowly. Now I have made my fortune in a day."

At this moment a clerk of the lottery company appeared and handed Mr. Spendrup a check on the New Orleans National bank for $15,000, which he received with an air of complete satisfaction that indicated he was perfectly happy.

The reporter wished the young Dane bon voyage to Santa Cruz and a joyous union with his sweetheart, from whom he had so long been separated.

A WINDFALL FOR WINDFALL—LUCKY MEN FROM A LUCKY TOWN.

On the day following the visit of the Dane (that is to-day), there entered this same charmed office three Indianians sturdy men of the western country, Messrs. W. C. Parker and E. Perry, of the town of Windfall, and R. R. Beauchamp, of Tipton, all of Tipton county, Indiana, some fifty miles from the capital, Indianapolis. It was soon revealed that these gentlemen had left their distant homes in the land of grain to reap a rich harvest in Louisiana—a harvest, not of grain but of gold. One dollar had grown in a few days to fifteen thousand, under the fructifying touch of good fortune, bona dea.

"We had five chances in the last drawing of the Louisiana Lottery," remarked Mr. Parker to the writer, "they were all fifths. Perry got them, and we agreed to share the profits."

"Yes," said Mr. Perry, "Parker had the faith and I had the luck. This combination was bound to win."

Mr. Parker stated that he had not expended in all more than $10 in lottery tickets during the time he had made investments of this character. He was agreeably surprised when informed by Mr. Perry that $15,000 had fallen to their lot, one of the fifths being numbered 59,075, which won the first prize of $75,000. They immediately started for New Orleans, but will shortly return to their homes. Both are men of family and in the prime of life, so that the money goes into good hands.

They were presented with a check for $15,000 on the New Orleans national bank, and withdrew from the parlor as happy as the many favorites who preceded them.—New Orleans (La.) Picayune, April 25.

POLYGAMY'S DEATH-BLOW.

The Supreme Court Renders a Decision in the Case of Rudger Clawson.

In a Carefully Prepared Opinion the Ruling Is Against the Plaintiff on Both Points Raised.

[Washington dispatch.]

A decision has been rendered by the Supreme Court in the polygamy case of Rudger Clawson against the United States, brought here by writ of error from the Supreme Court of Utah. Clawson, plaintiff in error, was indicted for polygamy at the April term of 1884 of the District Court of Utah, and after trial found guilty and sentenced to a fine of $800 and four years' imprisonment. He appeared to the Supreme Court of the Territory, and that tribunal having affirmed the judgment of the District Court, he brought his case here for review, upon the ground that the grand and petit juries by which he was indicted and tried were illegally constituted. The alleged illegality in the impaneling of the grand jury consisted in the exclusion upon challenge of persons who believed a man had a right to have more than one undivorced wife living at the same time, and in the case of the petit jury in the drawing of the jurors from an "open venire," after the whole original jury list of 200 had been exhausted through the exclusion of polygamists.

This court, in a carefully prepared opinion by Justice Blatchford, decides against the plaintiff in error upon both points raised. Section 5 of the Edmunds act provides

That in any prosecution for bigamy, polygamy, or unlawful cohabitation under any statute of the United States, it shall be sufficient cause of challenge to any person drawn or summoned as juryman or talesman, that he believes it right for a man to have more than one living and undivorced wife at the same time.

This court holds that the proceedings to impanel the Grand Jury which finds indictment for one of the offenses named under the statute of the United States against a person not before held to answer are part of the prosecution, and that the indictment is good, although persons drawn and summoned as Grand Jurors were excluded by the court from serving on the Grand Jury, and being challenged by the United States for cause mentioned in the act, the challenges having been found true.

With respect to alleged illegality in the case of the petit jury the court holds that where, under section four of the act of June 23 1874, relating to courts and judicial officers in the Territory of Utah, the names in the jury-box of 200 jurors provided for by that section are exhausted, the jury being only partly impaneled, the District Court may issue a venire to the United States Marshal for the Territory to summon jurors from the body of the Judicial District and the jury may be completed from persons thus summoned. It is held that the record shows no error, and the judgment of the court below is accordingly affirmed.

He suffered defeat in 1861, after which he removed to New York, and spent a good portion of three or four years in travels abroad of an writing amusing books about those travels. CATARRH

Diseases Tending to Consumption, Symptoms, Effects, Treatment and Cure.

Dr. Nicholls

Robinson House,

Fort Wayne, Ind.

Among the list of chronic diseases which affect the human frame Catarrh is the most prevalent, most offensive and most productive of discomfort, and of a variety of distressing and dangerous complications.

Its earliest and most prominent symptom is a discharge from the head, varying in its nature in different cases, and even in the same individuals at different times. It may be a thin, colorless, oriid fluid or a glary, starch like substance. Generally, however, it is a thick purulent or mucu-purulent matter, either ash color, greenish yellow or a deep green tint occasionally streaked or freeked with blood. Sometimes and offensive is the discharge in many cases that the patients express their belief that their heads are one mass of corruption.

"HAWKING"

Most of the discharge passes backward, either dropping in to the throat, or collecting as a tough, viscid tenacious phlegm, behind and above the soft palate in the passage between the throat and the head. Its lodgment embarrasses respiration, and creates a constant and almost resistable desire to relieve the discomfort by drawing the offensive substance into the throat by a loud insultation through the nose, so as then to be able to eject by a disagreeable "hawking."

OFFENSIVE BREATH.

In the more advanced stages the discharges are generally of an offensive odor, causing great annoyance to one's friends and to the patient himself, while his sense of smell remains. This annoyance from the odor becomes almost beyond endurance, more especially when the disease assumes the form of ozena, and the delicate bones of the nose become diseased.

DEFORMITY OF THE NOSE

In neglected cases, when the bones of the nose become diseased, not only is the offensiveness of the breath greatly increased, but there is a liability to serious personal deformities, among which is the flattening of the nose.

FATAL EFFECTS OF CATARRH

The swallowing of catarrhal secretions deranges the functions of the stomach, causing indigestion, loss of appetite and health. Debility, deafness, prleeess, lassitude, headache and disturbance of mind soon follow. In some instances the mental affections is one of irritability, the patient being unduly annoyed by all the little perplexities of life. In others the prominent feeling is that of melancholoy and depression of spirits, when the invalid can see no hope in the future for himself or his affairs.

CONSUMPTION and DEATH

Catarrh affections unchecked by treatment are prone to extend by continuity of surface along the natural air passages to the substance of the lungs, thus causing consumption and death. In this connection it should also be remembered that the air which enters the lungs of a catarrhal patient is, every breath of it, poisoned by exhalations from the foul secretions of the diseased surface. By such air the blood cannot be properly purified and made fit to impart healthy vigor to its mending circuit to all and every part of the animal mechanism. One would suppose that this consideration alone would be sufficient to induce every person thus afflicted to make every application for relief.

TREATMENT AND CURE.

By the system of treatment which Dr. Nicholls has adopted and pursued for years with uniform success, a complete and permanent cure of this repulsive disorder can be effected. This he has demonstrated in thousands of cases, representing the disease in every form and all its various stages of development. His applications are made to reach the diseased parts in the most direct and positive positive manner, instantaneously penetrating every cell and cavity of the head communicating with the nostrils, and subjecting every portion of the membrane to the healing action of the remedy employed, with the most beneficial results, and without causing the least pain or unpleasant sensation.

So effective is this plan of medication that a single application is generally productive of decided relief. The affected cavities are thoroughly cleansed from encrusted morbific matter, the offensive smell is removed, and relief from other troublesome symptoms is almost immediately experienced. The discharge soon diminishes, irritation is allayed, the inflammation subsides, ulcerations are made to heal and finally a radical and permanent cure is affected.

All Diseases of the Eye and Ear

Emmet M. Powers has instituted ejectment proceedings and a demand for $300 against H. W. Mordhurst. The controversy arises from the fact that Mr. Mordhurst refuses to vacate the building corner of Calhoun and Berry because he cannot secure immediate possession of his own building, now held by Emil Habercorn.

There is a very pretty picture in the show window of the Messrs. Keil Bros., representing a sailor's betrothed, sitting upon the seashore, looking expectantly out across the dashing waves of the ocean for him whom her heart trusts, and whom her eyes wistfully longeth to see. The pretty portrait was painted at the art school of the Sisters of Providence, St. Augustine's academy, this city, and is indeed an excellent recommendation of the talent of their department of fine arts.

The Gazette does Mr. Charles F. Muhler great injustice this morning in stating that he had promised liquor dealers and gamblers immunity from punishment for violations of law. Mr. Muhler is is certainly not that kind of a man, and the information was as much of a surprise to him as any one in the city. He, like all other good citizens, recognizes the supreme importance of enforcing the law.

A. D. Cressler, manager of the Kerr-Murray foundry, issued an order closing his shops for six months and discharging all the men now out. He refuses to yield to the demand for increased wages, and the strikers refuse to give an inch. They claim a negro was imported here from Crestline and sworn in as a special policeman. This action the men will contest in court, the fellow not being a citizen of Indiana. The estranged relations of the men and management are to be regretted, because both lose by the feeling.

The Carleton opera company presented "Merry War" at Logansport night before last. At the end of the first act Mr. Carleton appeared before the curtain, and entered an emphatic protest against the management of opera houses in general, and that of Logansport in particular, which, by running in a raft of entertainments of the Cheap John order, are driving meritorious and expensive organizations to the wall. The audience showed their sympathy with his remarks by vociferously applauding. In the absence of an orchestra, Mr. Carleton kindly refrained from repeating the "Cheap John" speech here.

"Pennsylvania Dutch and other Essays," This book by Mrs. P. E. Gibbons, describes some of our citizens of German origin; has one or two Quaker sketches, and other articles. In 1881 Mrs. Gibbons went to Europe, and she tells of Irish farmers and English people whom she met. Mrs. Gibbons is now in Fort Wayne, and has called at our office.

A new schedule goes into effect on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad to-morrow. The most important changes will be made on trains coming into competition with fast runs on the Panhandle and Fort Wayne roads—Pennsylvania company's lines—between Pittsburg and Cincinnati and Chicago. The Pennsylvania people are not worrying much over the moves of the Baltimore and Ohio.

The Wabash, a day or to since, hauled a live stock train over the road at a high speed. The train consisted of twenty-one cars of stock, eighteen of which were from St. Louis and destined to Jersey City, via the New York, Chicago and St. Louis railway. It was a trial shipment, in competition with the Indianapolis and St. Louis railway, and was run through at a speed of twenty-five miles per hour.

K. W. Wade, superintendent of transportation, and G. W. Stevens, superintendent of the eastern division of the Wabash system, are making the rounds for the purpose of further cutting down expenses. In the yards and depots at Detroit they have this week let out forty-two men, reduced the number of switching engines from ten to five. Proportionate reductions are to be made at other points. These officials are billed to be at Indianapolis the early part of next week, but where they can further reduce expenses there is the problem, unless they again order the telephone taken out at the city freight depot.

The "Drum Major's Daughter."

The Carleton Opera company presented Offenbach's prettiest composition, entitled as above, at the Temple last night. The company is creditable, and Mr. Carleton and the leading ladies are pleasing and as clever as it has been our good fortune to see here in comic opera, but the excellence of the company or the ingenuity and cunning of the stars, can not make up the loss of an orchestra and again the Temple patrons witnessed opera with a piano accompaniment, simply because the orchestra was not notified in time for rehearsal. The public is promised the "Merry War" to-night with Beineke's full orchestra and undoubtedly the presentation will be satisfactory.

FIERCE FLAMES.

A Destructive Fire Visits Roanoke, Resulting in the Total Loss of Five Buildings.

Yesterday morning about 1 o'clock quite a destructive fire visited Roanoke, just west of here, resulting in the destruction of five buildings, together with some of the furniture therein. The fire originated in the building occupied by David Jacobs as a saloon, and owned by Miss Della Delvin, of Huntington. The fire spread from this point, consuming the dwelling occupied by N. E. Nemire and owned by Mrs. Black, of Huntington; the storehouse of Daniel Christian, occupied by Mrs. Tait as a boarding house and the dwelling and business house occupied by Mrs. Wertshaugher as a millinery store. The loss has been estimated at about $4,000, on which there was insurance so far as known as follows: On Miss Della Delvin's building, $800; Mrs. Black's, $800; on the contents of the saloon, $500.

A RENOWNED PHYSICIAN.

HIS PHENOMENAL SUCCESS IN THE FUTURE GREAT.

TO THE WORTHY BELONG THE PRAISES.

Since Dr. Nicholls has located in Fort Wayne, his success has been phenomenal. That he is worthy, is every day attested by his ever-increasing number of patients. The doctor is an eminent specialist, who treats all diseases with the utmost attention and greatest success. He keeps a record of all his cases, the treatment and effect in each, which gives him an opportunity to handle the ailments of the human race with a precision that is wonderful in the extreme. The doctor is in every way capable to treat the most acute and chronic diseases in a humane and scientific manner. His practice has increased to such an extent that his rooms at the Robinson house are daily crowded with persons eager to seek relief from some disease that has baffled the skill of other physicians. They leave his office in better spirits, and it only requires a matter of a few days to set them again on the road to robust health, which in time brings unbounded happiness. Fidelity to his patients and a tendency to be lenient with the poor and unfortunate have placed him first in the hearts of the afflicted, and they stand ready to repeat the praises of his skill.

Thomas Simmons was yesterday appointed postmaster at Wabash.

"What Have You Been Perusing So Reverently?"

Queried Mrs. Partington of Ike. "It's a tract, ma'am," replied the boy, as he fastened four clothes-pins to the tail of the house cat. "My teacher gave it to me, and said it ought to be in every house." "Then it's Pond's Ex-tract," observed the old lady, calmly. "The very best rhapsody for Burns, Scalds, Rheumatiz, Gnitar and spontaneous eruptions which afflict mortals in domestic or barbarbecuing lands." The old lady was right. Be careful to get the genuine.

The king of the Netherlands is in seriously failing health.

Delays are dangerous. This is an aphorism that applies most aptly to disease, while it may appear trifling at first may rapidly develop into some serious complication unless promptly treated. A slight attack of indigestion may develop into dyspepsia, a slight irregularity of the kidneys may soon become a dangerous complaint; a slight cough is liable to quickly manifest itself as a fatal pulmonary affection. Delay no longer. Mishler's Herb Bitters will check the advance of the disease and restore you to health.
